✚ What is the Purpose of Art Now?

On 22nd January a group of some of this country's most distinguished thinkers across many disciplines came together to discuss what the point of art is now, only to conclude that the arts have never been more necessary, nor more at hazard from the knee-jerk reflexes of an embattled political and economic system. Parts of the debate will be available as a podcast shortly on our website, and a publication is planned based on the event later on 2010. Further details of any follow up events will be published in our e-newsletter. For further details, list of speakers, chair and content, please click on the following link:

✚ Ivan Hewett of the Daily Telegraph picked as his 'most rewarding discovery' of 2009 in his Christmas round up of concerts 'The elusive, atmospheric music of Catalan composer Federico Mompou, celebrated at the Guildhall School of Music and Drama.' – we are delighted to say that this was part of the Albéniz festival curated by Professor Barry Ife, Principal of the Guildhall School, and part of the Inside Out Festival.

✚ King's College has agreed a new partnership with the Cheltenham Festivals announced at a launch event on 20th January hosted by Donna Renney, Chief Executive of Cheltenham Festivals, and Prof. Rick Trainor, Principal of King's College. Academics from across King's are involved on an advisory level with each of the four Festivals, and will be programming events at Cheltenham and at King's College throughout the duration. Dates of the 2010 Cheltenham Festivals are: Jazz Festival, 28th April – 3rd May; Science Festival, 9th – 13th June; Music Festival, 2nd – 17th July; Literature Festival, 8th – 17th October.

✚ sleep furiously, directed by Gideon Koppel of the Department of Media Arts at Royal Holloway, University of London, was a firm favourite in the film polls of 2009. It rated among the top ten films in the Guardian, Financial Times and New Statesman, among others, and has also been short-listed for the Guardian First Film award and has just been nominated for The Evening Standard Film Awards.

✚ Peckham Space announces its fifth commission, The eyes see more than the heart knows, which is installed on Peckham Square in front of the new Peckham Space building which will be launched during 2010. The work is a large-scale photographic hoarding project by artist Gayle Chong Kwan, made in response to the landscape of Peckham and referencing local memory and history.

✚ Chelsea Programme is organising a temporary, Trans-European think tank which will consider the notion "Solidarity" in contemporary Europe as part of the Transeuropa Festival in Spring 2010. Further information will be available from the Borderline website in February 2010.

<http://www.borderlineproject.org.uk/> In partnership with European Alternatives.

✚ Queen Mary is pleased to announce the launch of an innovative series of key Olympics Lectures which will take place at the College during the run-up to London 2012. The lectures will explore themes in the history of the Olympics including recurrent challenges to the Games (the weight of history, impact on the built environment), as well as unique configurations (boycotts, natural disasters).

Events and Conferences

'with words like smoke' curated by Isobel Harbison

Date: 20th January – 20th February 2010. Venue: CHELSEA space, Chelsea College of Art & Design, 16 John Islip Street, London, SW1P 4JU.

Carl Andre, Anna Barham, Aoife Collins, Kit Craig, Marcelline Delbecq, Fergus Martin, Gyan Panchal, Amalia Pica, Lois Rowe, Cally Spooner and Raymond Taudin Chabot.

'with words like smoke' is a clause stolen from Samuel Beckett's 'Texts for Nothing' (1953), thirteen stories that converge under his translation of mesures pour rien - a bar's silence - the purpose of which is to carry a musical whole.

During the exhibition, spoken works will interpose the visual, from the opening's performances to a mid-point rehearsal to its final live broadcast.

When Central Met Saint Martins – 21 years of creative talent from CSM

Date: Until 26th March 2010. Venue: Lethaby Gallery, Central Saint Martins, Southampton Row, WC1B 4AP, nearest tube Holborn. Cost: Free

In 1984 St. Martins School of Art and the Central School of Art and Design took the first tentative steps towards amalgamation with the merger of their Fine Art and Graphic Design courses. In 1989 they finally merged to form Central Saint Martins College of Art and Design. The new organisation was able to draw on its combined strengths and there was an explosion of creative thinking as disciplines intermixed and new relationships were formed.

This exhibition showcases a range of work from across all of CSM's disciplines, from film making and performance, fashion and textiles, fine art and photography, costume and theatre design, graphic and product design, jewellery and ceramics, and shows the extraordinary talent to have come out of CSM in the last two decades.

Six Characters Looking for an Author

Date: 4th – 6th February and 8th February 2010, 7.30pm; Matinées 5th and 8th February, 2.00pm. Venue: Silk Street Theatre, Guildhall School. Cost: £7 (£3.50 concs.)

A rehearsal is interrupted by a family of characters from an unfinished play.

However as they rehearse together to complete the family's story, a dark secret, hidden by the family, is revealed with devastating consequences. Causing riots in Rome when first performed in 1921, Pirandello's most celebrated play is a fantasia on the themes of illusion and reality, art and artifice in which fictional characters are more real than living ones.
